A West Side youth gang, the Egyptian Cobras, announced on August 15, 1968 that it was recruiting members of other gangs to form a united front to support the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Curtis Hall, chairman of the board of the Casanovas, an elite group of the Cobras, stated that the Cobras would not disband because "there are always some rene-

*Following a trial in the Criminal Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Walter E. Montgomery was found guilty of murder on February 19, 1969 and on March 18, 1969 was sentenced by Judge Daniel J. Ryan to the Illinois State Penitentiary for 100 to 200 years. Darryl Allen entered a plea of guilty to the robbery indictment and was sentenced on March 18, 1969 to the Illinois Youth Commission for 10 to 14 years. On March 14, 1969, Ike Steptore was found guilty of robbery and not guilty of murder. On March 28, 1969, Steptore was sentenced by Judge Ryan to the Illinois Youth Commission for 10 to 20 years for robbery.

gade groups to carry on." Hill had been a member of the gang since 1955.

Parker High School, located at 6800 Stewart Avenue, was the scene of a youth gang battle on September 4, 1968. A leader of the Supreme Gangsters, eighteen-year-old Larry Hoover, of 6853 Green Street informed the police that he was standing in the school hall just outside the principal's office when two members of the East Side Disciples appeared. These boys, James Highsmith, age 18 years, of 6534 Emerald Avenue, and Leonard Longstreet, age 20 years, of 633 West 62nd Street, were not students at Parker High School. Hoover related that "The two walked past me in the hall and Highsmith smiled. Then Longstreet said, 'Burn him' and Highsmith pulled a gun and started shooting. I got hit." Bullets also struck two bystanders, Mildred Sivels, age 15 years, of 7214 Peoria Street and Louis Jackson, age 15 years, of 6815 May Street. All three Parker High School students were shot in the leg and were rushed to the St. Bernard's Hospital for treatment.

Only minutes after the shooting, police officers arrested James Highsmith and Leonard Longstreet. At the time of the Parker High School battle, Longstreet and Highsmith were at liberty on bond awaiting trial on two separate shootings that occurred earlier in the summer.
